NO SIGNS OF LIFE FOUND IN THE LOWEST GALLERIES

SEARCHERS COMPLETE THEIR WORK AND DISCOVER NOTHING BUT DEAD BODIES.

FIRE DAMP KILLED ALL

Remains of One Hundred and Sixty-Eight Located on the Lower Level—Had Been Dead for Days.

Cherry, Ill., Nov. 24.—It is now certain that there are no more survivors of the awful disaster which swept out of existence some three hundred miners ten days ago. Searchers this morning reached the lower level of the mine, where survivors it was thought, might have found refuge, only to find dead bodies.

Braving the danger of further caving in, of fire damp, and of the explosion of gases that have been forming, a brave little party went almost to the end of the furthest passageway in search of any who might be alive. Their work was in vain.

The discovery of one hundred and sixty-eight bodies on the staircase at the mouth of the third landing practically completes the roll of the miners who were in the mine when the fire began. This leaves but a score to be accounted for and it is expected they will be discovered in some of the many galleries.

These miners had evidently died in the first rush for safety in the explosion on November 13. The bodies lay together in a great tangled mass completely blocking the staircase leading from the third to the second level.

None were also scattered along the vein where they had dropped before reaching the stairway at all. Black damp was the direct cause of all the deaths and had they lived to reach the staircases they could not have gone up as debris covered the top and closed all exits.

Other bodies were found five hundred feet from the main shaft. Here an elevated surface offered them a place of refuge from the advancing water and fatal damp black. They may have lived for two days but there was no chance for escape and they died after a hard struggle.

Miners were found written on wood and also on the natural slate croppings of the walls. These placed the number of dead at one hundred and sixty or sixty-eight and practically completes the roll of the mine. The mine officials place the number of bodies not yet found at a dozen at most.

The exploring party were more than an hour in the gallery before the bodies were discovered. They were forced to wade in the water which deep through a circular tunnel before they were able to reach the elevation of the shaft or ridge where the bodies were.

The mine officials fear that the mine will continue owing to the gases which are forming. The flames are not yet all out and the roofs of many of the galleries are caving in. Some but volunteers are permitted to go into the mine at all.

The work of taking the bodies out will be begun as soon as communication with the upper regions can be arranged for. At present it would be almost impossible to carry the corpses up the long stairs and ladders.

OPPOSED PROPOSED LAW FOR COUNTY

Manitowish County Board Takes Decided Action on Contemplated Change.

Manitowish, Wis., Nov. 24.—Because, it is contended, the bill tends to promote government by commission and takes from the people the election of the county superintendent, the county board yesterday declined to oppose to the proposed law for creation of a county board of education, a bill proposed by the legislature's special educational committee. The resolution will be forwarded to the committee as a memorial against the bill.

Patrick McNellis, a Franklin man who for years has been cared for by the town under protest, it being claimed that McNellis is a county charge, was accepted as a county charge by action of the county board today after the board had been advised that the county could not be held for bills for care of the man in the past. McNellis came to Franklin, a transient, several years ago and took food and later without funds and refused to leave the town.

Local police believe that two men given lodging at the police station Nov. 17 may be the murderers of Hattie Zinda, the Manitowish girl killed two weeks ago. Both men are Poles and answer description of the men being looked for by the Manitowish police and their suspicious actions while here and other circumstances have prompted the police to notify the Milwaukee department.

Thomas of the Edward Hines Lumber Co. to prevent persons who took lumber from the care of the wrecked Hinton from being fulfilled yesterday when Stephen Givens was arrested on the charge, pleaded guilty and taken to jail. It was said that a quantity of the lumber which was used in the building which was refused to give it up. Several other persons holding lumber give it up.

Harvey Ebert, a west side boy, 16, employed as a clerk in a local store, is mysteriously missing and no trace of the boy can be obtained. The fact that he disappeared leaving his clothing and known to have no funds, has caused anxiety and efforts are being made to locate him. The boy is a son of ex-Pontiac August Ebert of the police force.

To Wed in Illinois: George Levin of this city and Lena Kiehl of Ashland, Ill., were granted a license to wed yesterday afternoon in Rockford.

EX-SECRETARY OF TREASURY TO WED

Lyman J. Gage To Be Married Tomorrow To Mrs. F. Ada Ballou, in San Diego, Cal.

San Diego, Cal., Nov. 24.—Mrs. Katherine Thuley's colony of theosophists is all agog in anticipation of the wedding tomorrow of Lyman J. Gage, ex-Secretary of the Treasury, and Mrs. F. Ada Ballou, whose engagement recently became known despite the efforts of the principals to keep it secret. Mrs. Ballou is a recent convert to theosophy, but Mr. Gage for some years past has been one of Mrs. Thuley's most eminent disciples. After their marriage the former Secretary of the Treasury and his bride will take up their residence in a palatial home recently completed for them at Point Loma.

This will be Mr. Gage's third venture into matrimony. His first wife, to whom he was married in 1894, was Miss Sarah Eberhardt, daughter of a physician of Hastings, Minn. She died in 1897, and some ten or twelve years later Mr. Gage married Mrs. Cornelia Washburn Gage of Denver, whose death a few years ago left Mr. Gage a widower for the second time.

Mrs. Gage's fiancée, who is the daughter of George M. Ballou, a prominent San Diego merchant, has passed through a varied matrimonial career. Several years ago she was married to a Pittsburgh man who was a white-collar man. The couple were believed to be happy, but she was reported to have been in a bad way when they were on a sailboat in the bay at night. He died soon after the wedding, and the widow returned here from Liverpool, where they had gone to live.

The resumed her maiden name. Three years later Kansas City Capitalist named Moore was here for the summer and fell before the charms of the widow Ballou. He was an elderly man and soon after their engagement was announced he returned to his home in Kansas City to prepare for the wedding and died there before his bride-to-be could reach him. She contested his will, but failed to win a portion of his large estate.

Mrs. Gage is a woman of considerable social standing and is well known in San Diego. She is the daughter of a prominent family and has a large fortune.

CANADIAN ELECTION WAS INFLUENCED BY RAILROAD QUESTION

Exciting Campaign in British Columbia Caused by Question in Regard To Through Pacific Lines.

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 24.—The most interesting and exciting political campaign in the history of British Columbia closed today. Tomorrow the electors of the province will vote approval or disapproval of the deal made with the Canadian Northern Railway Company by Premier McBride for the extension of its line to the Pacific Coast. Members of the legislature are to be elected in all except two ridings, Kootenai and Similkameen. In a good many seats there are three-cornered contests owing to the presence of Socialists and independents. In Vancouver, where five members are elected, there are three full tickets. In Victoria only three Liberals are running for the four seats. There are forty-two candidates to be elected in all.

The McBride railway policy is the chief issue. Premier McBride has outlined his policy in the following statement: "We have entered into a contract with the Canadian Northern Railway for the construction of a road from the Yellowhead Pass to Kamloops by way of the North Thompson River; from Kamloops to Westminister and Vancouver, and from a point near Vancouver to English Bay to make a first-class connection with Victoria, and to build a railway from Victoria to Port Hardy. The distances in all will be about 400 miles and the road is to be completed and in operation within four years. To assist the company in the construction of this road, which will cost at least about $50,000,000, the government will ask the legislature to guarantee interest at four per cent. upon $5,000,000. For security the government will hold a first mortgage on the line of railway in British Columbia, and will have a convenient from the Canadian Northern Railway Company indemnifying it against any loss that might possibly occur."

John Oliver, the Opposition leader, proposes a plan which would insure the construction of nearly 1,000 miles of new railways in the province. He proposes that the provincial government should supplement the federal subsidies to the extent of 50 per cent. The projected lines subsidized by the Dominion government are the Kootenai Central from Tellico to Golden; Midway and Vernon, from Carleton Place to Penticton; Vancouver, V. and Y., from Vancouver to Grand Forks, French Creek to Campbell River, Vancouver Island and Eastern Campbell River towards Port George. In a general way Mr. Oliver proposes to "cash in" on the extensive system of subsidies already granted by the Dominion government, subsidies which, if supplemented by provincial aid, would insure the construction of nearly 1,000 miles of railways throughout British Columbia.

The meeting will extend over a period of 100 days. An average of $2,000 in stakes and purses will be hung up daily. The event of the opening day will be the inaugural handicap, a six-furlong event for all ages, for a purse of $1000 and added money.

LA CROSSE HAS VERY DECIDED ROMANCE

Miss Long Absent Returns With a Fortune and Tells Strange Story of Wanderings.

La Crosse, Wis., Nov. 24.—After an absence of 17 years during which time he accumulated a fortune, Frank Butterfield, whose history reads like a romance, returned this city to surprise his foster father, only to learn that the guardian of his youthful years is dead.

Butterfield, who was the son of an old negro slave of Merrillan, was adopted by Nathan Smith, the old negro slave who was the bodyguard of former Governor Cadwallader C. Washburn of Wisconsin and who followed his master to the north after the close of the war. "Nigger Nathan" as he was generally known, was the first type of the southern negro and the predominant love of his life was children. Leaving a family of 12 in the south, none of whom he ever saw again, Smith adopted George Taylor, a colored boy who recently had the distinction of being a candidate for the presidency of the United States on a southern labor ticket. Butterfield was then a child. Sacrificing themselves in order that Taylor should be given an education, he being the oldest, Butterfield helped the little hillside farm a few miles from this city, where he was promised the best schooling they could afford as soon as Taylor had finished. Becoming dissatisfied Butterfield left his farm home at the age of 16 with $8 in his pockets. Being thrown off a railroad train where he was beating his way Butterfield wandered to a ranch house where he secured employment. After years of careful saving he has a ranch of his own consisting of 2,000 acres and an immense herd of cattle near the Crow Indian reservation in Montana.

SEARCH THE SEAS FOR MILLIONAIRE WITHOUT ANY CLUE

No Trace Yet Discovered of John Jacob Astor and His Friends Are Worried.

New York, Nov. 24.—Falan news from Wilmington, Delaware, that Col. John Jacob Astor's yacht, "Nourmahat," was safe at San Juan, Porto Rico, on November 15, coming on the heels of the alarming report that a dorellit sighted north of Cuba might be the Astor yacht, was a welcome rainbow after the storm of anxiety which his friends and relatives had experienced here since the West Indian region was cut off from communication by the hurricane two weeks ago, but proved to be unfounded.

William A. Dobbyn, private secretary to Colonel Astor, was greatly relieved at the receipt of the Wilmington dispatch, but is nevertheless anxious for details, which did not come.

The news was passed along immediately to Douglas Robinson and Nicholas Biddle, trustees of the Astor estate, and Mr. Biddle promptly flew messages with the wireless and cable companies to Mrs. Astor, who called for Europe on Wednesday last on the Lusitania, soon after obtaining a decree of divorce.

At the time of her departure the anxiety over Colonel Astor and their son, Vincent, had just begun to develop seriously, and Mrs. Astor was considerably upset, especially concerning her son.

A pretty legal tangle will arise should Colonel Astor have lost his life during the storm. His wife, it will be remembered, was divorced at a secret session of the court, but after the storm. Should he have died while she was yet his wife she will be heir to his vast estate, or the widow's share, rather than receive the ten millions obtained at the time of the divorce.

Astor left no one to be away from all telegraph and communication with the world and even if he is not wrecked he is succeeding very well. Fears however, are felt now that his vessel has sunk and that all on board have lost their lives. Many boats are scouring the seas and small islands for traces of wreckage which will tell the tale but thus far no report has been received that gives definite assurance that the search is ended.

GOVERNOR OBJECTS TO THE CRITICISM

Says That His Thanksgiving Day Proclamation Does Not Lack Dignity.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 24.—The attack made Sunday by Rev. A. E. Ewing of Grace Episcopal church here on Governor Davidson's Thanksgiving day proclamation has served to draw attention to this formal, executive document beyond anything accorded a like pronouncement of recent years. Usually Thanksgiving day proclamations are treated as purely perfunctory, and little public notice is taken of them. But this year an extra edition will probably be necessary, so brisk has become the demand since the local cleric has denounced it as being too heavy with materialistic suggestion and too light in respect to religion. The proclamation is unquestionably light on ritual, and Governor Davidson is not trying to defend it on this account, but a casual reading of the document will show that its language is spiritual. Its very opening is the declaration, "It is well to have a rich, full life," and immediately suggests occasional contemplation of one's circumstances and plan to make one's success more effective. Rev. Ewing objected to the presentation of the picture of a turkey on the proclamation, to the "purely pagan" reference, "providence of nature," and to the fact that only once does a reference to the deity appear. He said he came from a state—Massachusetts—where Thanksgiving day was born. It is Governor Davidson's recollection that it was President Abraham Lincoln who issued the first proclamation of a Thanksgiving day, and that the nation can claim exclusive credit for this American custom. Lincoln was born in Kentucky, spent much of his life in Illinois, fought battles in Wisconsin and was president of the entire United States, and while there is common association of the Pilgrim Fathers with the first observance of the celebration of completed harvest, even that observance was not so spiritual as to exclude materialistic thoughts. The New Englanders feasted on wild turkeys, and drank liberally of hard cider, as they contemplated barns fat with the fruits of the past season of hard work in the fields. Governor Davidson has now issued four Thanksgiving day proclamations and will if he lives issue one more. The document which has recently been the subject of controversy is as follows:

DIARY OF DEATH IS FOUND IN CHERRY MINE VICTIM'S POCKET

Youth Facing Black Damp and Despair Leaves Record of Unsuccessful Fight for Life in Walled Up Pit and Sends Word to Sweetheart.

Cherry, Ill., Nov. 24.—A "diary of death," written by a young man as the long hours passed while he and thirty-seven of his companions, one of them being his 15-year-old brother, waited in a walled up chamber in the burning St. Paul mine for the rescuers who never came, was taken from the pocket of one of the mine victims here today. It was a simple story, written in a small memorandum book by Sam D. Howard, a minor, who had not yet reached his majority and who, with his brother, was the support of his widowed mother.

In this badly scrawled "death record" there was word for the young girl, Mamie Robinson, whom he was to marry within a few weeks. He had loved this 18-year-old girl since boyhood, and in the postoffice box there he had ordered by mail for their engagement ring. This ring is mentioned and the wish expressed that it be given to the girl.

The youth's story of his unsuccessful fight against death follows: "13th, 1909: Alive at 10:30 o'clock; yet, 10:15, 11 sharp—By Sam D. Howard, Alfred, my brother, is with me yet. A good many dead mules and men. I tried to save some, but came almost losing myself. If I am dead, give my diamond ring to Mamie Robinson. The ring is at the postoffice where it was sent. Henry Gauntlett can have the ring I have in my pocket. The only thing I regret is that my brother Alfred and I were not together. I tried my best to get out, but could not. I saw Jim Jamison and Steve Tinko lying dead along the road and could not stand it any longer, so what is a fellow going to do when he has done the best he could. It is something fierce to see men and mules lying down all over like that. We have our buckets full of water, pump water, and we drink it and bathe our heads with it. "10 to 12 o'clock—1 o'clock—2 o'clock—3 o'clock: Pure air and black damp. "4 o'clock—Change of place; no black damp, but poor air. We lost a couple of our group. Two men tried to get out and could not get back. "Sunday—Still alive, that is, you will find me with the bunch. It is 11 a. m. There is five of us. Alfred Howard, Miller, Loyson, Sam D. Howard, Steele, we are still alive. The only hope is the fan. Gus Francisco (evidently there were six and Howard wrote Francisco's name after he had enumerated the party). I think I won't have strength to write pretty soon. "15 after 12 p. m. Sunday—We are having a swell time making fans. If they can't give us air we will make some ourselves. That is the best we can do. We take our turn at the fan. We have three of them going. "2 to 3 p. m.—The black damp is coming in. Only for the fans we would be dead. "11 to 4 p. m.—Dying for the want of air. "15 after 9 p. m. Sunday—Still alive. We can't move front or back, we can't stand it with our fans until Monday morning. "15 after 2 a. m. Monday morning. Still alive. We are cold, hungry, weak, sick and everything else. Alfred Howard still alive. "15 after 9 a. m. Monday—Still breathing. Something better turn up or we will soon be gone. "11:15 a. m.—Still living at this time. "1 p. m. Monday—The lives are going out. I think this is our last; we are getting weak. Alfred Howard is

HOHENADEL BUYS A ROCKFORD FACTORY

This Gives His Company Six Factories in Southern Wisconsin and Northern Illinois.

On Monday last the P. Hohenadel Jr. Canning company, which has a factory located in this city, purchased another canning factory, buying up the property of the Rockford Canning company of Rockford, Ill. This is the sixth factory which the concern has built or bought and gives them a large amount of territory in Wisconsin, northern Illinois, and a small portion of Iowa. With the acquisition of the new plant, the Hohenadel company adds to their already large field, fifteen hundred additional acres of growing land, making in total of about fifteen thousand acres for raising the raw material for their products. Three hundred extra hands will be employed when the packing season is at its height, so that when the factories at Rockford and Rockford, Ill., Dubuque, Iowa, and Janesville, Black River Falls, Sheboygan and Warrens, Wis., are running full blast, eighteen hundred men will be kept at work by this one company. The newly acquired factory is used mainly for packing peas and corn.

Another deal is now under way by which the Hohenadel company will probably secure another large plant in northern Illinois, but the deal has not yet been consummated. The capitalization of the Hohenadel company is now about a quarter of a million dollars.

Busy Season.

This season has been the heaviest in all times for all of the factories controlled by the Hohenadel company and the packing will not be finished until the first of December.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

Marie Dressler will soon appear in a new musical play by Edgar Smith and A. Baldwin Stone, called "Tillie's Nightmare."

A new play, entitled "Don," by Rudolf Isler, was recently produced at the Haymarket theatre, London, and secured a success.

Henry Miller, has withdrawn "The Great Divide," which he was presenting in London, and is now playing "The Servant in the House."

Rehearsals of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's "Flies of Fate," are now proceeding in New York and the first production will be made in Chicago, Dec. 6.

Charles Frohman and Cyril Maude have agreed jointly to produce Austin Strong's latest play, "The Toyman of Nuremberg," in London, during the next month.

Sir Charles Wyndham and Miss Mary Moore will begin an American tour some time toward the end of January, appearing first, for two weeks, at the Empire theatre, New York.

Wilfred Lucas, who is supporting Rose Stahl in James Forbes's comedy, "The Chorus Lady," will retire from the dramatic stage at the end of this season to again resume his career as a concert singer.

"Marjorie's Mother" is the title of the Mason & Turner French comedy in which Clara Lipman is to be the star. Under the name of "La Marquise d'Etrole" it was acted by Jeanne Granier in Paris last year.

Paul Dickey, leading man with Henrietta Crossman in "Rumors," has recently written a play called "The Ghost Breaker," which has been accepted by Henry H. Harris and will be produced by him during the present season.

Rehearsals were begun the other day in New York of "Jequeline," a new play by Harriet Ford and Carolina King Duer, in which Henry H. Harris will present Grace Elliston some time before the coming holidays.

When it shall become necessary for Margaret Anglin to produce a new play it will be a comedy of modern life written by Mr. John Luther Long, with whom the actress signed a contract to that effect in New York the other week.

A London season is under discussion for John Mason, the original Jack Brookfield of "The Witching Hour."

Mr. Mason is well known in London, having played there for two seasons in "The Idler," with George Alexander, with Frank Benson.

"The Sign of the Cross," in which George Hearn is appearing in Yonkersville, is to be expanded into a three-act play next season. The same general idea will be retained and will form the groundwork for the second act of the three-act drama.

James Bernard Pagan, author of "The Earth," was seen recently by actor-two years under the management of F. R. Benson, England's greatest Shakespearean star, and two years with Beerholm Trio. While with the latter he was the understudy of Louise Waller, Mr. Tree's leading man.

Arrangements have just been completed for the production of Weber's theatre, New York, on December 23, of the musical comedy, "The Daughters of Liberty," now in its sixteenth week at the Princess theatre, Chicago. The last performance of "The Climax" at Weber's will be on December 22.

"The Daughters of Liberty" is by Adams and Hough and Joseph D. Howard.

DISTRESS FROM A BAD STOMACH, GAS AND INDIGESTION WILL END

Your out-of-order Stomach feels fine five minutes after taking a little Diapiesin.

Take your sore, out-of-order stomach—or maybe you call it indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gastritis or Catarrh of Stomach; it doesn't matter—take your stomach trouble right with you to your Pharmacist and ask him to open a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapiesin and let you eat one 22-grain Triangulo and see if within five minutes there is left any trace of your former misery.

The correct name for your trouble is Food Fermentation—food souring; the Digestive organs become weak, there is lack of gastric juice; your food is only half digested, and you become affected with loss of appetite, pressure and fullness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, griping in bowels, tenderness in the pit of stomach, bad taste in mouth, constipation, pain in limbs, sleeplessness, belching of gas, bloatedness, sick headache, nervousness, dizziness or many other similar symptoms. If your appetite is feeble, and nothing tempts you, or you belch gas or if you feel bloated after eating, or your food lies like a lump of lead on your stomach, you can make up your mind that at the bottom of all this there is but one cause—fermentation of undigested food.

Prove to yourself in five minutes that your stomach is as good as any; that there is nothing really wrong. Stop this fermentation and begin eating what you want without fear of discomfort or misery.

Almost instant relief is waiting for you. It is merely a matter of how soon you take a little Diapiesin.

A Thanksgiving Vision.

By FRANK E. THOMPSON

ALONE! Oh God, I lift my Eyes to the Dome of thy sacred Dwelling! Desolate is my Home on this Thanksgiving Day! My Feast is spread but only loving Spirits whisper to Me, while a joyous World returns Thanks and chants thy Blessings! Gone are Friends, Fortune, Loved Ones. Today, I see the Glories of our World through Eyes dimmed by Memorial! Today, thy sacred Gifts of Life are my only material Blessings! Today, Sorrow crushes Me to Earth! But Father I Thank Thee for the Vision unfolded across yon Patch of blue Sky

THANKS, Omnipotent One, for this Day's glorious Gifts of Faith, Hope, Love and Charity. Accept my thanks for this Hour's Blessing of Good Cheer, Good Will, and Brotherhood of Man. Gentle, forgiving, all seeing Father of All of Us, I pray to be allowed to cling through all the Years to this Moment's Vision of the Faces in the Clouds. My Heart beats with strange Joy, the Mist fades from my Eyes, my Soul goes out to Those, who were, as the last Autumn Leaf from a naked Branch, carried to my very feet its simple story of the End of All—the Emancipation of Man. Father, We thank Thee!

THANKSGIVING DAY
Someone has said that there are two or three epochs in every life which stand out prominently. One is at birth, when unsolicited and without choice of environment, we open our eyes upon a new world and the fact is always well to spend good of the deed.

The next is when we stand before the person and plight our vows for better or for worse until death or the divorce court rends them asunder.

The third and last is when our friends stand around the casket and say good things about us, because it is always well to spend good of the deed.

So there are three epoch-making anniversaries recognized and celebrated in every American home.

The first is Christmas, in memory of the day so long ago when the babe in the manger at Bethlehem was heralded as the Savior and the Prince of Peace.

The second is fourth of July, when every boy becomes a dynamo of enthusiasm, and when the rest of us take a day off to celebrate.

The third is Thanksgiving day, established by our forefathers and handed down through the generations until it has become a part of our national life.

Just why the last Thursday in November was selected as the day for special gratitude is not recorded, but it was a wise selection because so far removed from the Sundays, at either end of the week that it neither interferes with appetite nor devotion.

The day has lived through all sorts of experiences—"fat years and lean years; years of sorrow and years of rejoicing; years when the black cloud of war enveloped the country like a pall, when in many homes vacant chairs were sad reminders of a broken family no more to be united around the festive board.

The celebration this year, which occurs tomorrow, is so far removed from the days of strife that only the scars remain, and a nation cemented by the ties of blood will join in general and genuine thanksgiving.

"No north, no south, no east, no west," comes nearer being realized today than at any time in the history of the nation and this in itself is cause for gratitude.

this kind of extravagance the fact should not be overlooked that the humble dollar is the dollar which brings joy and gladness, and that money spent for other people's happiness is better than money hoarded for other people to quarrel about when the stewardship is ended.

In many respects the year 1909 has been very much like preceding years. Seed-time and harvest, marriage and divorce, success and failure, death and sorrow make up the record. "The day is significant to individual lives because of individual experiences.

To some homes saddened by recent bereavement, or clouded by trouble, the day will seem a mockery, and the heart will search in vain for gratitude, but the fact remains that there is more sunshine than cloud, more success than failure, more honesty than dishonesty, and more joy than sadness.

The day will be worthy of the name if hearts and homes unclouded touch elbows with other hearts and homes less fortunate.

Thanksgiving is one of the rare occasions when charity loses the taint of its name in the broad channel of philanthropy.

The family that would feel insulted by the gift of a basket of provisions, at any other time, accepts the turkey with grateful acknowledgment and a "God bless you."

This is the spirit of the day and reciprocal blessings are the common experience, for the old Scripture emphasizes significance and people discover that "it is more blessed to give than receive."

If you can't be supremely happy, be as thankful and happy as you can, and lend a hand to the brother less fortunate.

REPUBLICAN SENTIMENT
"The heathen did rage, but the people refused to imagine a vain thing. I congratulate you, J. G. CANNON."

Another from Congressman Bontell at Washington read:
"Accept my hearty congratulations on your triumph over the allied enemies of republicanism."

These two dispatches were received yesterday by Moxley, congratulating him on his election. The one from "Uncle Joe" Cannon is characteristic, and the one from Bontell is significant because it expresses republican sentiment.

He does not hesitate to call things by their right name, and the "allied enemies of republicanism" include the "insurgent" leaders and their deluded followers.

The statement would have been stranger had this disturbing element been classed as enemies to the president and his administration—disloyalty so uncommon and so unwarranted that it merits censure from every quarter.

The rank and file elected President Taft because they had confidence in his integrity and ability. It was the one occasion which happens every four years when the average voter takes interest enough in an election to spend time to vote.

This spirit of indifference means that he is not a politician. It also means that he is indifferent to the squabble now being carried on by men who aim to discredit the man they voted for.

This effort will be a failure because it lacks the support of the masses. A revolution, to be effective, must command popular sympathy and endorsement.

The Chicago Tribune and other "insurgent" organs in Illinois received a jolt yesterday when William J. Moxley was elected to congress in the sixth district. The fight was directed at Cannon directly, and indirectly at Taft and the administration. It was the first gun against the forces of disloyalty, and should serve as a warning to the men who are attempting to disrupt the party.

cost a pretty penny in spite of the big crop. We four we shall have to insist on more intensive turkey farming."

Some Were Killed
With deer hanging in front of nearly every meat market in Janesville one can not agree with the Milwaukee Sentinel, which says: "The scarcity of slain deer this year may mean poor marksmanship, but more probably is indicative of too good shooting in past seasons."

Here is an Idea
The Tolland Monitor-Herald suggests that they think it would be a good thing to make all the candidates for governor pass a civil service examination before leaving their nomination papers.

Why Should There Be?
The Eau Claire Leader agrees with Governor Davidson when it says Governor Davidson wisely states he will call no special session if it is to be only a wrangling match. The chances are, therefore, that there'll be no special session.

It Would Be Nice
The La Crosse Tribune suggests how John Strange would appreciate circumstances which, in the "morning after," would justify him in calling them Alphonse Morris and Gaston McGovern.

Our Opinion Also
The Wisconsin Record-Herald says: "No candidate yet announced for governor has been hailed with any extreme enthusiasm. The man to lead to victory on a platform which declares for clean politics regardless of factional disputes is awaited."

On Ignorant
The Neenah News says pathetically: "When you hear a man sneering at the local paper because it is not as big, cheap and noisy as the city papers, you can safely bet he does not spend any of his wealth to assist in making it better, and that generally the paper has done more for him than he has for it."

Here is a Howl
The Milwaukee Journal again howls forth its usual howl: "Are Aldrich and the exploiters of the country whom he represents talking back with the hope of diverting attention from the crime they committed when they forced the Payne-Aldrich tariff law upon the country, or are they seeking another way to add to the tribute they levy upon us?"

Pride in Home
The Eau Claire Telegram takes pride in home life and says: "Let it be recognized that Eau Claire women are leaders in Wisconsin in the matter of coordinating works of charity and carrying on these philanthropic labors in a selfless and businesslike manner. Mrs. Whitcomb of this city, called to Madison to give expert advice at a meeting under the auspices of the philanthropy department of the Madison Woman's club, has, judging from the Madison newspaper, given the movement for organization of charities a decided impetus in the right direction."

POOR HELP THE POOR.
There are some beautiful lessons in "the short and simple annals of the poor."

A physician observed a young woman who scrubs the floors in a big office building where he has offices carrying a baby.

The baby bore no sort of resemblance to the girl, but was carried in such a tender, motherly manner as to cause the doctor to inquire of another scrubwoman:

"Is that her baby?"
"No, indeed," was the response. "The poor thing belongs to a neighbor woman who is desperately poor. Rosa is taking care of the baby so its mother can go out to work. Rosa can keep an eye on it while she does her own work."

Surprised at this fine revelation of practical helpfulness, the physician continued to talk with the scrubwoman, who said:

"Things of that kind are very common among us poor people. You comfortable ones seem to think that it is only the rich or well to do who do charity work. I tell you if you would associate with us tenement folks you would find that—"

"The poor help the poor ten times where the rich help them once!"
Which is without doubt a truth. We are apt to forget that philanthropy is not necessarily a matter of dollars and cents. Tender hearts bent under shabby clothes, and in succor calloused hands are often held out.

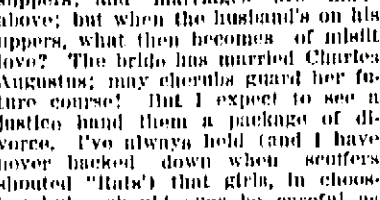

There are good reasons why the poor must help the poor.
Living in close touch in the tenements, they are at hand when misfortune overtakes a neighbor. They know what to do and why and how to do it.

The girl Rosa, warm hearted and kind, lives neighbor to the poor mother with the babe. She knows the mother's desperate straits. She knows the mother must work or starve and that she cannot take her baby. To know and to be close at hand is to sympathize. To sympathize is to help.

"Today the bride goes to the altar, the while the bells, right joyous chime; she does not hesitate or falter; her confidence is quite sublime. And Charles Augustus walks beside her, all groomed and slicked, ed to beat the band; she's LIFE'S LOTTERY chosen him through life to guide her, and help her with his guiding hand. She used to flirt with other friskers, but fired them when Augustus came; she liked the color of his whiskers, adored the contour of his frame. She doesn't know much else about him; they only met a while ago; but surely no same girl could float him—she's such a dandy, such a lot! O, lovers buy the oyster supper, and marriage's art made above; but when the husband's on his uppers, what then becomes of ill-fated love? The bride has married Charles Augustus; may Charles guard her future course! But I expect to see a justice hand them a package of divorce. I've always held (and I have never backed down when scuffers shouted "Rats") that girls, in choosing hubs, should ever be careful as when choosing hats!

Complaints have been pouring in upon the gas committee of Strabala, Ireland, because of the fact that the street lamps have been turned out in the evenings. It was discovered that children often turned out the lamps in the town and this was stopped, but those in the roads round the town continued to be extinguished. At last the clerk of the gas works has solved the matter. It is the work of courting couples, who find the darkness more romantic than gas light.

CORN EXHIBIT AN ADDED FEATURE

SPECIAL PRIZES AT SOUTHERN WISCONSIN POULTRY EXHIBIT.

BIG SHOW IS PLANNED FOR

Birds from All Parts of the State Will Be Entered at Second Exhibit of Association.

In addition to the exhibit of poultry, which promises to be the largest ever held in southern Wisconsin, the Southern Wisconsin Poultry Association have offered special premiums for an exhibit of corn which will add increased interest to the exhibition that will be held at the West Side Hotel the first week in January.

The committee having charge of the arrangements report that already the demand for corn is far in excess of their expectations and everything points to an exceptionally large exhibit of fine fowls from all parts of the state and northern Illinois. Many special cups have been offered for special varieties of fowls.

Several valuable prizes to be competed for exclusively by farmers will be offered by the Association for the Corn Show. It is the intention of the association to make this year's show the best that has ever been held in Janesville and to that end they have secured prizes to be given to those farmers exhibiting the best corn.

The conditions are easily met and are as follows. Each entry must contain not less than half a bushel of corn, weighing at least 55 pounds, the corn to become the property of the association. No entrance fees will be charged. The premiums offered are as follows:

For the best 1/2 bu. Yellow Dent—A 14-in. steel beam walking plow, manufactured by the Janesville Machine Co. and donated by W. F. Bosworth.

For the best 1/2 bu. of Yellow Dent—$5 in gold, offered by the association.

For the best 1/2 bu. White Dent—1 bu. field Medal flour, donated by Washburn-Crosby Co. by Geo. J. Foran, agent.

For the best 1/2 bu. White Dent—$5 in gold, offered by the association.

MAKES BIG FUSS ABOUT TURNING RIGHT ANKLE

John Mayo of Baraboo is Doing the Continuous in the Howl Act at the City Lock-Up.

Something happened to John Mayo, who claims to have been a Baraboo railroad employe, at the police station last evening and the police patrol wagon conveyed him, lying in apparent agony, to the city hall station. Dr. Charles Sutherland made an examination and found a small swelling about the man's right ankle which indicated that he had turned or sprained that member. Every time the lock-up door was opened today Mr. Mayo gave vent to a full-throated scream that was exceedingly painful to the hearers. The hard-hearted police officers, however, made no effort to soothe him or to persuade Poor Commissioner Anderson to convey him to a nice warm bed in the county hospital.

TO TAKE RELIGIOUS CENSUS OF THE CITY

Protestant Churches to Work Together to Secure Names of People and Church to Which They Belong.

Promptly at a o'clock Friday morning, one hundred and forty members of the several churches in the city, whose ministers belong to the ministerial association or are interested in it, will start out to secure a religious census of the city, canvassing the city and securing the name and church affiliations or preferences of every person in the city. They expect to finish the work by noon.

The work is a part of a great movement suggested by Prof. Kent of Yale university, and which the members of the ministerial association plan to inaugurate. Its main purpose will be to secure the names of the children in the city who are not connected with any one of the Sunday schools.

When Prof. Kent was in the city some time ago he suggested the taking of a census and the changing of the hour of the Sunday school meeting to ten o'clock. At a meeting of the ministerial association some time ago, it was decided to follow out this plan and the census is the first step to be taken. The plans for the taking of the census were arranged about two weeks ago.

A report of the religious condition of Janesville will be made from this. The work of the census is entirely un denominational. All the churches are working together in this movement, which is to enable them to reach children that they have never before attempted to reach because of uncertainty as to whether or not they belonged to another Sunday school. All the names secured will be used strictly confidentially and will in no way be made public.

In taking the census, the canvassers will ask for the answers to six questions, as follows:

1. Are you a church member?
2. What church are you a member of?
3. If not a member, what is your church preference?
4. What Sunday school do you attend?
5. What is your Sunday school preference?
6. How many children are there in your family?

After the completion of the census, the problem of changing the hour of Sunday school will be considered. If the change is made the Sunday schools will meet at 2:45 instead of 12, and the church services will not begin until eleven o'clock, closing at half past twelve. United action on the part of all the churches interested will be necessary before the change is made.

FILES APPLICATION IN MADISON TODAY

Cincinnati Construction Co. Asks State Railway Commission for Permit to Build Road From Janesville to Madison.

Joseph Ellis, engineer and Wisconsin representative of the Cincinnati Construction company, this afternoon filed with the secretary of the state railroad commission the formal application of necessity and convenience of the proposed road which, if built, will run from Janesville to Madison by way of Edgerton, Staunton and Lake Kegonsa, and Wausau. Mr. Ellis stated over the telephone that the commission had promised an early hearing so that the actual work of construction can be started as soon as the spring opens. Meanwhile much is left to be done in preparing the blue prints necessary and also completing the purchase of the right of way of the proposed route.

IS SEARCHING FOR HIS RUNAWAY WIFE

A. L. Erier, Who Lives at the Corner of Jackson and Pleasant Streets, Deserted by Wife Early Last Week.

A. L. Erier, age about fifty years, is searching for the woman whom he married about a year and a half ago—a tall, striking looking brunette who is his second wife and said to be his junior by about two decades. Mrs. Erier took French leave of him only last week and a quiet search for her has been conducted in Fond du Lac, Rockford, and other places. It appears that after the husband had built a fine house on Cherry street the wife complained that she didn't have enough household duties to keep her busy and urged him to move into the recent abode at the corner of Jackson and Pleasant streets where it would be possible to provide an occasional lodger with a room. One of Erier's immediate neighbors, a hayslayer from Chicago, who stopped there early in the autumn, recently Mrs. Erier took up canvassing for a certain article of women's apparel as an avocation to occupy her spare time and it is understood that she was absent from home and town a good deal on this pretext. Her husband also alleges that she found relief from ennui in corresponding with a certain man or men in Chicago or elsewhere. Since her disappearance he has received a letter from her posted at Fond du Lac. Mr. Erier has retained Attorney Fred C. Burpee as counsel, but whether he intends to begin action for divorce or seek to recover certain property which he is alleged to have decided to her does not appear. If she would come back and he good it is quite likely that all would be forgiven.

GOING TO LA CROSSE TO GIVE TESTIMONY

Chief Appleby and Two Grocers Summoned to Appear Before Federal Grand Jury in Oleo Probe.

Chief of Police George M. Appleby, Ford, Schumacher, truckman at the C. & N. W. depot, W. J. Baumann, and Walter Taylor have been subpoenaed by U. S. Marshal Rock Flint to appear as witnesses before the federal grand jury for the western district of Wisconsin which convenes in La Crosse at two o'clock Friday afternoon. The Janesville party will leave for the Gate City Friday morning. That the local men will be called upon to give evidence regarding the oleo operations hereabouts seems evident. U. S. Inspector Bescher or Burns yesterday reiterated his assertions that the arrest made here led to the unearthing of one of the most gigantic butter swindling schemes ever perpetrated. He says that his department has been working on this proposition for a year and a half and that now members of the gang are in the toils at Janesville and Milwaukee, the whole plot is unwinding like a ball of yarn. He also declares that A. E. Graham, who is under arrest here, knows more about the making and labeling of the so-called "creamery butter" than he has yet told.

JAMES F. CURTIS IS SELECTED

BOSTON MAN IS CHOSEN AS ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF TREASURY.

IS FRIEND OF MACVEAGH

Collector Loeb Goes President, Says Will Dismiss Dozen More Employees Which Will Complete Housecleaning New York Custom Service.

Washington, Nov. 24.—James F. Curtis, United States district attorney at Boston, has been selected as assistant secretary of the treasury, to succeed James B. Reynolds, resigned, to become a member of the tariff board.

Mr. Curtis is a friend of Secretary MacVeagh of the treasury department. His appointment was decided upon some time ago, but announcement was deferred because of his engagement with what are known as the steel combination cases in Boston, to which Mr. Curtis has devoted the past ten weeks. These cases involve charges of combination of bidders for municipal contracts.

Loeb to Discharge More Men.

William Loeb, Jr., collector of the port of New York, was a caller at the White House, and spent half an hour or more with President Taft. Mr. Loeb stated that the housecleaning in the customs service at New York was about completed. Within the next week he will discharge a dozen or more men. He stated that when they were let out he thought the service would be in first-class shape, and that no more discharges in the near future were contemplated. Mr. Loeb confirmed the story that Surveyor Clark was to retire.

President Discusses Message.

Appointments soon to be made were the main topic of discussion at the cabinet meeting. Part of the session was devoted to a discussion of the features of the president's forthcoming message to congress. Although he has the material for the message pretty well in hand, the president has not yet begun the dictation of any part of it, and it is extremely doubtful if the message will be concluded earlier than two or three days before it is to be read to the senate and the house.

Gives Hudson-Fulton Medal.

In the presence of his entire cabinet, President Taft received from the officers of the Hudson-Fulton celebration commission a magnificent gold medal struck by the commission in commemoration of the celebration recently held in New York city.

The medal is one of eight which are to be presented to the governments which sent warships to participate in the celebration.

THINK ROCK ISLAND IS BUYING WABASH

Rumored in Wall Street Moore-Reld Syndicate Desire Gould Road for Eastern Connection.

New York, Nov. 24.—An advance of more than four points in Wabash preferred stock and nearly two in the common, in a weak market, was the result of heavy purchasing on the stock exchange.

For several months this buying of Wabash has appeared whenever the general market developed a reactionary tendency, and undoubtedly represents an accumulation of the shares for some specific purpose. There was a persistent rumor in Wall Street that the Moore-Reld syndicate was seeking an eastern connection through control of the Wabash.

NEW TRIAL FOR BANKER MORSE.

Wins Preliminary Move for Rehearing of His Case.

New York, Nov. 24.—Charles W. Morse, federal prisoner in the Tumbs, awaiting the outcome of a legal fight to avoid the 15 years' sentence imposed upon him as the result of his conviction on charges of violating the national banking laws, will have cause for thanksgiving on Thursday in that he won a preliminary move for a new trial.

The petition of Martin W. Littleton, counsel for Morse, seeking an amendment to the mandate of the United States court of appeals, which affirmed his conviction by the United States circuit court, was granted in a decision giving him the right to apply to the lower court for a new trial.

BARRY STRIKES A TARTAR

Takes Ten Rounds to Stop Galloway, Who Is Given a Terrific Beating.

Boston, Nov. 24.—Jim Barry, the Chicago heavyweight, administered a beating to Ralph Galloway, a California negro, in the arena of the Armory Athletic association last night such as has never before been seen in a Boston ring.

Barry, a tall, two-handed slugger, knocked Galloway out with a wallop to the jaw early in the tenth round, but not until the negro had been hammered incessantly for the nine preceding rounds and had shown more actual gameness in that period than any of his race since Joe Gans and George Dixon fell before the relentless onslaughts of Battling Nelson and Terry McGovern.

STANDARD OIL WILL AWAIT COURT RULING

Company to Consider No Other Plans for Doing Business Than Present Methods.

New York, Nov. 24.—That it has no intention of seeking to procure an amendment to the Sherman anti-trust law, but will proceed with the appeal to the United States supreme court from the decree of the circuit court at St. Paul was the announcement made by the Standard Oil Company.

Until the supreme court has rendered a decision, the company will consider no other plan of doing business than the methods now in use.

Mortimer E. Elliott, general solicitor for the company, is authority for the foregoing. He discussed the case at the Standard Oil building, 26 Broadway, after a conference with William G. Rochester and John D. Archibald.

To Await Verdict of Court.

"There is to be no effort on the part of the company to procure an amendment of the Sherman anti-trust law," said Mr. Elliott. "We shall await the verdict of the supreme court before we take any steps looking toward either reorganization or a new statement of our case to the public. The court has first rights."

"It seems highly improbable to me that there will ever be a foreign holding company organized. The complexity of control exercised by the several states sets too many difficulties in the way."

An executive officer of the company said that no alarm was felt over the possibility of a criminal prosecution under section 11 of the Sherman act, should the present decree in equity be upheld in the supreme court.

COMMISSIONER WARNER RESIGNS

Illness of Son Causes His Retirement from Pension Office.

Clinton, Ill., Nov. 24.—Vespasian Warner, United States commissioner of pensions, has tendered his resignation to President Taft and it has been accepted.

The resignation went to Washington about a week ago, and the acceptance was received by Mr. Warner today. It was appointed to the position by Roosevelt in 1901, and was reappointed by Taft.

Mr. Warner is in Clinton, and has been for several months. His coming home was occasioned by the illness of his son, C. M. Warner, who has had charge of two large estates. The work was more than the younger Warner's constitution would allow, and he was obliged to quit. It was the purpose of the father to come home and relieve him for a few months, in the hope of improvement, thinking then he might resume his duties as commissioner, but the illness of the son has not yielded to medical treatment. He is now at West Baden.

Hundreds of letters from veterans all over the United States have been coming in the last few weeks, urging Mr. Warner not to resign.

Fenders for Automobiles.

Spurred on by the number of fatalities in Chicago due to automobiles, members of the common council of that city have started an agitation to compel automobile owners to equip their machines with fenders. An unwieldy fender of the kind used on street cars is not contemplated, but some light fender that will be effective. A spring buffer, at least, that will protect people from the steel bar that runs around the front of most machines to save the lamps is desired. This bar is claimed to be one of the worst menaces of automobile construction.

W. J. MOXLEY ELECTED IN SIXTH Republican Congressional Nominee

Chicago, Nov. 24.—William J. Moxley, the regular Republican candidate for congressman for the Sixth Illinois congressional district, was elected to succeed William Lorimer, who resigned when elected to the United States senate, by a plurality of 6,277 votes.

The vote resulted as follows: W. J. Moxley (Rep.), 14,491; Carl L. Barnes (Ind.), 8,317; Frank S. Ryan (Dem.), 6,277.

The campaign in this election was most bitterly contested and was participated in by many Republicans of national and state fame, including Speaker Cannon and Gov. Deneen.

$10,000,000 Widow Marries.

New York, Nov. 24.—Mrs. William Hayes Chapman, the "10,000,000 widow," surprised her friends by being married at her apartments in the Hotel St. Regis to Philip von Valkenburg, a brother-in-law of Judge Edward Tappan. Although several men's names have been mentioned as aspirants for her hand, Mrs. Chapman seems to have kept her own counsel. Everywhere she went in Europe an army of noble suitors, rich and otherwise—mostly the latter—followed her. She is said to have received upward of 700 love letters.

Cassignol and Cline Win.

New York, Nov. 24.—Ferdinand Cassignol, the French billiard champion, and Harry Cline of Philadelphia won the two games played in the 132 ball-line tournament for the championship of the world. Cassignol defeated Albert Cutler of Boston, 500 to 412, and Cline defeated George F. Slosson, the local veteran, 500 to 392.

Afraid of Ghosts

Many people are afraid of ghosts. Few people are afraid of germs. Yet the ghost is a fancy and the germ is a fact. If the germ could be magnified to a size equal to its terrors it would appear more terrible than any fire-breathing dragon. Germs can't be avoided. They are in the air we breathe, the water we drink.

The germ can only prosper when the condition of the system gives it free scope to establish itself and develop. When there is a deficiency of vital force, languor, restlessness, a sallow cheek, a hollow eye, when the appetite is poor and the sleep is broken, it is time to guard against the germ. You can fortify the body against all germs by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It increases the vital power, cleanses the system of clogging impurities, enriches the blood, puts the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition in working condition, so that the germ finds no weak or tainted spot in which to breed. "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, whiskey or habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients printed on its outside wrapper. It is not a secret nostrum but a medicine of known composition and with a record of 40 years of cures. Accept no substitute—there is nothing "just as good." Ask your neighbors.

CHAPTER I.

The Primitive Norm.

Whether she had fainted or fallen asleep, she did not know, but this one thing was sure, it had been dark when consciousness left her and it was now broad day, although the light seemed to come to her with a greenish tinge which was quite unfamiliar. The transition between her state of yesterday and that of today was as great as if she had been born into morning from the womb of midnight and like a young animal she drank it in blindly with closed eyes. She could hear the thunderous roaring of the breakers crashing upon the barrier reef. Along her boat had been wrecked in the darkness of the night before—the sound softened and mellowed by distance came to her in a deep, low accompaniment to the sharper and nearer sounds of the birds singing and the breeze rustling gently through the long leaves of the trees overhead.

The dry sand on which she lay was soft and yielding and made a comfortable bed for her tired body racked with weary days in the constraint and narrowness of a small boat. It was warm, too. She had been drenched when she scrambled on the shore and felt prostrate on the beach, retaining just strength enough and purpose enough to crawl painfully inward to where the tall palms grew before she lapsed in whatsoever way it might have been into oblivion.

Incoherent thoughts raced through her bewildered brain; each one, however, bringing her a little nearer the awakening point of realization. Then there ran through her young body a primal pang which dispelled the tremulous and vague illusions which her fancy had woven about herself as she lay warm and snug and sunny at the foot of the tall trees, and she realized that she was frightfully thirsty, so thirsty that she did not know how hungry she was.

The demand for the material awakened the animal in her. Her thoughts centered instantly; they were at once localized on one supreme desire. Consciously her eyes unclosed and she sat up blinking in the strong light. The rising sun still low on the horizon smote her full in the eyes and left her for the moment dazed again. She sat leaning upon her hands extended behind her back staring seaward, saying nothing, thinking nothing, until a strange sound to the right of her attracted her attention. It was a sound made by a human voice and yet it was like nothing human that she had ever heard. It was a wordless, languageless ejaculation, but it roused her interest at once despite her material cravings.

She weakly turned her head and there standing erect with folded arms looking down upon her was a man. He was unclothed entirely save for a fantastic girdle of palm leaves about his waist. She stared at him puzzled, amazed, affrighted. He returned her look with an intent curiosity in which there was no suggestion of evil purpose, rather of great incomprehension, an amazing wonderment. There was nothing about him, save the fact that he was there, which should have caused any alarm in her heart, for with a woman's swift mastery of the possibilities of the other sex, she noticed in her vague terror and wonderment that he was remarkably good to look at. Indeed, she thought that she had never seen so splendid a specimen of physical manhood as that before her. In color he was white. Save that he was bronzed by the tropic sun, he was perhaps whiter than she was. His hair, which hung about his head in a wild, matted tangle, not unpicturesquely, was golden; his eyes bright blue. Beneath his beard, unkempt but short and curly, she could see his firm, clean-cut lips. His proportions were superb. He was limbed and chested like the Apollo Belvedere. In his grace and strength strove for predominance. He was totally unlike all that she had read of the aborigines of the South seas.

It was the man who broke the silence, as it had been the man who had broken the spell of her slumber. He made that queer little chuckling noise in his throat which sounded familiar enough and yet she had heard it from the lips of no man before. It meant nothing to her except that he who stood before her at least was not dumb, although the noise he made was certainly no articulate speech as she knew speech or could imagine it.

At any rate it was a stimulus to her. She opened her own parched lips and strove to make reply, but her throat, with a rising terror and nervousness made her dumb and no sound came forth. The man might be preparing to kill her. He could do so, if he willed, she thought, but she must drink or die. If she could not speak, she could make signs. She leaned forward raised her arm, hollowed her hand and dipped as if from a well and made as if to pour it into her lips. Then she stretched out both her hands to him in the attitude of petition. The man stared hard at her. His brow wrinkled.

It was such a simple sign that any savage would have comprehended it, she thought, and yet it appeared to her, watching in despair, that it took a long time for the idea to beat into his brain. She

She rose to her knees and stretched out her hands again.

"Water!" she gasped in a hoarse whisper. "Water, or I die!"

The man had started violently at her speech. Giving him no time to recover, she went through the motion again, this time with greater effect. She sank down on the sand too exhausted to follow him even with her eyes. If he brought the water she would drink it and live; if he did not, she would lie where she was and die. She did not care much, she thought, which would happen. She had so sickened of life before she essayed that open boat, that she believed it was simply an animal craving in her which would make her take the water in case it should be brought her. And yet when he did appear with a coconut shell brimming with clear, sparkling liquid, she felt as though the elixir of life had been proffered her.

She seized the shell with both hands which yet so troubled that most of the precious water spilled on her dress as she carried it to her parched lips. This was good in the end, for if that vessel had been the famed Jotunheim drinking horn, she would have drained it dry ere she set it down. As it was, she got but little; yet that little was enough to set her heart beating once more. Emptying the shell of the last drop—and with that keenness of perception which her long training had intensified and developed, marking the while that it had not been cut clean by any knife or saw or human implement, but was jagged and broken as if from a fall, she dropped it on the sand and looked again toward the man. He held in his hand fruit of some kind, she did not know what it was. It might have been poison. What mattered it? Having drunk she must also eat. It looked edible, it was inviting to the eye and smell, and as she sunk her teeth into it, she found it agreeable to the taste also. He had brought it to her. If he had meant harm, present harm, surely he would not have given the water. She ate it confidently.

As the man saw her partake of what he had given her, he clapped his hands and laughed. She was grateful for that laugh. It was more human than the babbling sounds which he made before.

There was but little of the fruit, just what a child would have brought and this again was good for her, for had there been an abundance, in her need she would have eaten until she had made herself ill. When she had partaken, she rose to her feet. Before doing this she had extended her hand to him as if seeking assistance, but he had simply stared at her incomprehending and she had been forced to get to her feet unaided. Once standing, she trembled and would have fallen, but that she caught his arm and steadied herself by holding tightly to it. The man started back at her touch. Color came and went in his face; little shudders swept over him; his mouth opened; he looked at her with a singular expression of awe not unmixed with terror in his eyes, for this was the first time in his recollection or what would have been his recollection if his retrospective faculties had been developed, that he had ever felt the touch of a woman's hand, of any human hand upon him.

"Water!" She Gasped in a Hoarse Whisper.

Noticing his peculiar demeanor in the, to her, perfectly natural situation, the woman summoning some of the remnants of the reserve of forces which is in every human body until life is gone, released his arm and stared about her leaning against the trunk of the nearest palm. This time, and for the first time, she took in that expanse of sea, lonely yet beautiful, upon which her eyes were to look so often. Out of the deep and the night she had come. Into what deep and into what day had she arrived?

She turned and surveyed the shore. The beach curved sharply to the right and to the left, the long barrier reef following roughly its contour until the land obscured it on either side. Back of her stretched a grove of palms and back of that rose a hill; its crest bare and crag-like towered above a sea of saw the mass of rock as a mountain peak. On one side high precipitous cliffs ran down close to the shore and shut out the view. Over them water fell to the beach.

Save in the person of the man beside her there was not an evidence of humanity anywhere. No curl of smoke rose above the trees. No distant call of human voices smote the fearful hollow of her ear. The breeze made music in the tall palms and in the thick verdure farther up the hill side, birds sang softly here and there, but there was a tropical stillness to which the great heaving diapason on the distant barriers was a foundation of sound upon which to build a lonely quiet. Human beings there might be, there must be, on that island, if island it were; but if so, they must be abiding on the farther side. She and the man were alone.

Standing on her feet, with a slight renewal of her strength from what she had eaten and drunk, the woman now felt less fear of the man. He had treated her kindly. His aspect was gentle, even amiable. He looked at her wistfully, bending his brows from time to time and over and again shaking his head, as a great dog looks at the master with whom he would fain speak, whose language he would fain understand, to whom he would fain impart his own ideas if he could.

She stared at him perplexed. She was entirely at loss what to do, until her eyes roving past him detected a dark object in the water line just where the still blueness touched the white sand. The sunlight was reflected from gleams of metal, and she thinking that she recognized it, she stepped from the shade of the palms and made her way unsteadily toward it. The man, without a sound, followed closely at her side.

Her vision had been correct, for she drew out of the sand a leather handbag, such as women carry. It had been elaborately fitted with bottles and mirrors and toilet articles. Alas, it was in a sad state of dilapidation now. The bottles were broken, their contents gone. The bag had been lying in the boat when it had been hurled on the barrier in the night and the same storm and tide which had borne her ashore had hurled it also on the sand. But it had come open in the battering and its contents were pitifully ruined. With eager eyes and fingers she examined everything. She found in it a little mirror, a pair of scissors, a little housewife which was not a part of the fittings and she wondered how it failed of being washed away, two combs and a package of hairpins.

She had fought against starvation and thirst and loneliness and despair as she had fought against men and she had not given way. She had set her teeth and locked her hands and endured hardship like the stoutest hearted, most determined soldier in the history of human struggles. But as the realization of this small misfortune burst upon her, she sank down on the sands and put her head in her hands and sobbed. Tears did her good. She had her cry out, utterly unbidden, for the man stood by, shaking his head and staring at her and making those strange little sounds, but offering in no way to molest her.

The water was beautifully clear and she could see on the other side of the barrier the remains of her boat. Perhaps some time, if there were need, she could get to that boat, but for the present all the flotilla and jetsam of her wild and fearful voyage lay in a water-soaked bag full of broken glass and a battered silver from which she had rescued a pair of scissors, a mirror, two combs, a housewife full of rusty needles and some hairpins. O vanitas vanitatum!

She was wearing a serviceable dress of blue serge with a sailor's blouse and a short skirt. Putting her precious treasure trove within the loose blouse and carrying the battered bag which she meant to examine more carefully later, she turned and made for the shade of the trees again. For one thing the sun rising rapidly was gaining power and beating down with great force upon her bare head. She had enjoyed the protection of a wonderfully platted straw hat on her long voyage else she could not have borne the heat, but that, too, was gone.

As she walked inland, she noticed again off to her right that stream of water which dropped over the tall cliff in a slender waterfall a sweet inviting pool at the base before it ran through the sands toward the sea. She made her way thither and at the brink knelt down and took long draughts of it. Eating and drinking evidently went together in the mind of the man, for when she raised her head, she found him standing before her with both hands filled with some of the fruit she had partaken of before and other fruit. She thought she recognized the bread-fruit and a species of banana. At any rate, she ate again and having by this time recovered to some extent her mental poise, she ate sparingly and with caution.

Then having satisfied her material needs, she knelt down by the stream and washed her face and hands. How sweet was the freshness of that water to her face burned by the sun and the wind and subjected for a long time to the hard spray of the briny sea. She would have been glad to have taken off her clothing and plunged into the pool, to have washed the salt of days from her tired body, to have had the stimulus and refreshment of its sparkling coolness over her weary limbs. But in the presence of her dog-like attendant this was not yet possible.

Still she could and must arrange her hair. Of all the articles in her dressing bag, she was more fondly thankful at that moment for the combs than anything else, the combs and the little mirror and the hairpins—small things indeed, but human happiness as a rule turns on things so small that the investigator and promoter thereof generally overlook them. And we until upon some desert island we are left with only these.

It was still early, about eight o'clock. How was she to pass the day? She must do something. She felt she could not sit idly staring from sea to shore. She must be moving. No business called her; she must invent some. The compelling necessity of a soul not born for idleness was upon her. She would explore the land. That was logically the first thing to be done any way and this was a highly trained woman who thought to live by rule and law albeit her rules were poor ones.

She started inland, the man following after. She had gained confidence in herself with every passing moment. The man who looked at her as a dog she would treat as one. She must have some privacy. She could not always have him trailing at her heels. She turned by a great boulder, pointed to it, laid her hand on the man's shoulder and gently forced him to a sitting position by it. Then she walked away. He stared wistfully after her departing figure, and as she turned around to look at him, he sprang to his feet.

"No, no!" she cried imperatively, making backward threatening motions with her hands, whereat he resumed his sitting position, staring at her until he lost her among the trees.

Presently she turned and came back to him. It was so deathly lonely without him. He leaped to his feet as he saw her coming and clapped his hands as a child might have done, his face breaking into the while into a smile that was both trustful and touching. She felt better since she had him under this control, and together they walked on under the trees.

Come With Us to Our Wyoming Irrigated Land

Richest of Soil--Most Perfect Irrigation System with Perpetual Water Rights--Home Markets--Delightful Healthful Climate--Good Transportation Facilities

Only $40 to $60 per Acre—on Easy Terms

In Laramie County, Wyoming, on the Colorado & Southern Ry., there is a tract of perfectly irrigated land, containing thousands of acres. On this strip a few people are going to grow rich within the next few years. Perhaps you wish to be one of these. Come with us on our next excursion for an investigation.

You will find (in full operation) one of the best irrigation systems in the United States—three ample reservoirs, flood-gates and flood-gates of heavy structural iron; set in solid, cut-stone masonry. You'll find good schools, churches, telephone and other like advantages. You will find land that produces these

Crop Yields

50 bu. wheat per acre; 150 to 300 bu. potatoes per acre; 12 to 30 tons of sugar beets per acre;

40 to 80 bu. of oats per acre; 40 to 60 bu. of barley per acre; 30 to 50 bu. of rye per acre, and 3 to 7 tons of alfalfa per acre.

Live Stock Advantages

You can run your stock on the U. S. Government land (adjoining these lands) and bring them in and finish for market on alfalfa and grain grown on your irrigated land. No other irrigation system that we know of offers you so good a chance to "double up" your profits. These lands are located 100 miles north of Cheyenne, Wyoming, and 150 miles from the famous Greeley Country, the soil being exactly the same, and our land will produce larger and better crops; and, remember, our price is only one-third what land is selling for in this older section.

Send for Free Booklet—Join Next Excursion

We want you to see this land before you invest a dollar elsewhere. We are sure of our proposition or we wouldn't ask you to go out there. ### MISFORTUNE FOLLOWS TRAIN AT APPLETON

Twice Within Eight Miles Part of Train Is Left Behind by the Engine.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Appleton, Wis., Nov. 21.—The victims of the "Slow Road Through Arkansas" were experienced yesterday by the combination train on the Milwaukee road between Appleton and Illbert. Twice within the distance of eight miles was the coach and its passengers left behind. The first time the break in couplings occurred the engine and freight cars had gone seven or eight miles before it was discovered that the coach was missing. Running back that distance the coach was chained to the freight car ahead, but before the train had proceeded more than three miles the chain broke and the coach was again stalled. Some of the passengers left the car at that point and traversed the country to the Neenah-Appleton Interurban line.

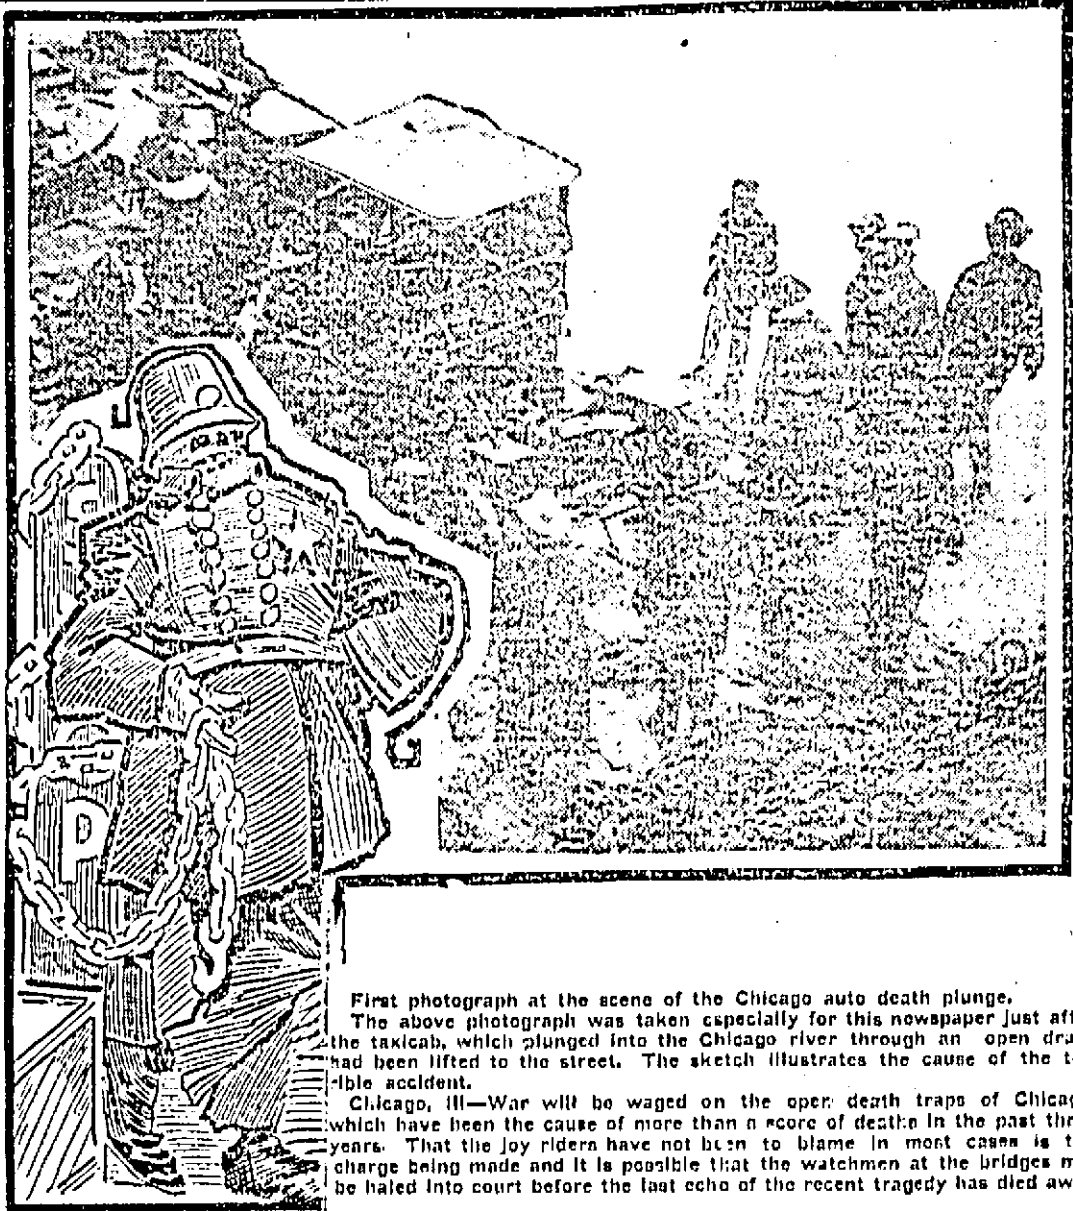

A unique defense was set up yesterday afternoon by Emil Malouf, an Assyrian, who is charged with violating the Sabbath by doing barber work. Malouf appeared before Judge Ryan and after pleading not guilty, declared he did barber work only for his father and brothers, accepting such stipend for his work as they saw fit to offer. Others whom he shaved, he declares he charged nothing, being glad to get "victims" to practice on. He stated that he intends becoming adept in the tonsorial art and then will apply for a state license. His case has been adjourned one week. The secretary of the Appleton Barbers' union is complaining.

had been lifted to the street. The sketch illustrates the cause of the terrible accident.
Chicago, Ill.—War will be waged on the open death traps of Chicago, which have been the cause of more than a score of deaths in the past three years. That the joy riders have not been to blame in most cases is the charge being made and it is possible that the watchmen at the bridges may be haled into court before the last echo of the recent tragedy has died away.

Palace of the Escorial.
The palace of the escorial, in Toledo, built by Felipe II. to commemorate his victory over the French at St.
Quentin, is the only building of the kind in the world. It was dedicated to San Lorenzo, and Juan Baptista, the architect, took a griddiron as his model. The bars were represented by rows of magnificently built buildings, and the handle by a superb church.
The palace has nearly 2,000 rooms, over 6,000 windows and doors, and 83 staircases, while 72 fountains and the contents of 48 wine cellars help to assuage the thirst of this monster grid-iron's occupants.

She Mollycoddles.
So general has been the idea that the college girl was emulating her brother in cultivating muscles at the possible expense of mind that many have even looked for a warning from a women's college or club president against the danger of feminine excess in sports. To have instead an information that the college girl is a mollycoddle is something of a shock. Some women's college basketball team should seize the opportunity to demonstrate by a list of injured in a contest requiring a surgeon's services the injustice of the suggestion.—New

R. M. SMITH.
(Staff Speech)...
Marquette, Wis.—The Marquette County insane asylum at Poshtigo is the only institution of the kind in the world that is self-supporting. The report which was presented to the board of county supervisors at their last meeting was a most gratifying one and reflected great credit on the management of Superintendent R. M.
Smith, under whose direction the scope and usefulness of the institution have been broadened while its resources have been developed in a manner which has no precedent in this or any other county.
The report presented by Superintendent R. M. Smith shows that the total expense for institution and farm maintenance for the year was $25,933.

97, divided as follows: From the state for the care of patients, $18,162.77;
from the sale of farm produce, $2,883.
20 and $4,880 which the county saved by the care of its own patients, leaving a net profit to the institution of $50,774.
It is proposed to increase the dairy herd, buying only pure bred stock. The Poland-China hogs, which carried off numerous prizes at the state and county fairs, have proved to be a good investment and are bringing substantial returns in the way of sales of young stock.

The condition of the Marquette County insane asylum where every care and attention is provided the patients, is most gratifying demonstrating as it does careful and efficient management and by its success advertising the possibilities of Wisconsin as an agricultural dairy and stock raising territory.
It's a mistake to pay $20 for an advertising space and fill it with a 50 cent ad. Anything worth doing is worth doing well. Advertising is an investment, not an expense, if it is properly handled.

has through its efforts helped many young men and women to better positions during the past year—positions of responsibility and trust.
It has enjoyed almost double the attendance compared with any previous period.
It has been able to add very materially to its already modern equipment so that it stands as one of the best equipped business schools in the Northwest.
It has won the confidence of the business men of this city and community who have employed its graduates and know of its thorough work.
It has been able to fulfill its every promise.
It has grown to be a bigger and better school and has made many new friends.
It has made great efforts to meet the requirements of this community in supplying a want, felt by every ambitious young man and woman.
It has placed every graduate in a good position and is better prepared than ever

And because it has succeeded so well, it makes this expression of gratitude to all its

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

DO you ever—when you were young and eager and unversed in the lore of human nature—ever say to some other person equally young and eager, "let's tell each other our faults?"

Of course you did.

And did you ever by any chance get through that fault-finding session without both of you getting a little bit hurt at the very least?

Of course you didn't.

More likely you both became indignant.

Most of us are the better for criticism but few of us are able to receive it much of it without feeling, even if we do not show it, a wee bit of resentment towards those who give the criticism.

In view of that, a little plan which a certain college Greek-letter society uses, seems to be very valuable.

The society has a question box. Into this box at each meeting of the society the members drop questions and suggestions in regard to the conduct of the other members.

These comments and suggestions the president fishes out of the box and reads aloud to the society.

They are unsigned, of course, so that nobody knows who writes what. They are put in a kindly, sometimes half humorous spirit and they are always couched so as to hurt as little and help as much as possible.

"If X represents the distance at which you can hear Mary's laugh, how many miles off can you hear Alice's green tie?" is a gentle hint for Alice to wear a somewhat less "loud" tie in the presence.

"Freshmen who cut more than half their recitations seldom get A's. Does Elsie know this?" is a gentle hint for Elsie to be a little more regular in her attendance at classes.

In this way the members get the invaluable opportunity to see themselves "as others see them" without getting an opportunity to feel hurt.

Why isn't this a good suggestion not only for the college society or other club but also for the home?

Why not have the question box to be opened once a week by mother?

Of course the writing might give the authorship away in so small a circle but no one but mother need see the slips, and surely she can keep her own counsel.

We often see those whom we love making foolish little mistakes when the right word spoken in just the right way might make them see their folly.

Here is a splendid chance to speak that right word in as kind a way as possible.

LECTURE ON MUSIC WAS GIVEN TUESDAY

Mrs. J. F. Sweeney-Delivered Second of Series of Addresses at Wilcox Home.

At the home of Mrs. J. F. Wilcox on South Second street yesterday afternoon Mrs. J. F. Sweeney delivered the second of a series of lectures on musical history. The program, which was interesting as well as instructive, was divided into the following topics:

Music as Affected by the Renaissance.

Florentine Movement to Establish Greek Drama on a Modern Basis. Drama Promoted. Oratorio.

Monodic School. Instrumental Music. The Organ.

The House of Amati. Guitars and Stradivarius.

Count Baldi, Peri, Caccini, Monteverdi, Cavallero, Carissimi, Corelli, Tartini, Stradelli, the Scarlatti.

Besides the lecture several splendid musical numbers were given. Selections of Scarlatti were rendered by Miss Anna Szymanski of Beloit and Miss Evelyn Post of Edgerton, two accomplished young pianists. Miss Solita Bentley gave a selection on the violin in a very pleasing manner, and Miss Maude Bruce's vocal solo was another one of the pleasant features of the program.

The next lecture will be delivered on December 13th at the home of Mrs. John G. Rexford on Sheldahl street.

Don't Miss It!

Don't miss it! Nov. 24.—An additional number of bluecoats will be stationed at the Drake stadium Thanksgiving day, to prevent betting on the game between Ames and Drake university. Bill M. Bell, president of the institution, announced that gambling on the game would not be tolerated under any circumstances.

Sleepless Nights

"My wife is of a nervous temperament, and has suffered much from sleeplessness. Since using Dr. Miles' Nervine she has greatly improved and now sleeps well."

W. W. FISIBACK, Redkey, Ind. When the nerves become weak, worn-out, excited from overwork, worry, grief or mental exhaustion, their turbulent condition prevents that total relaxation that induces sleep.

Dr. Miles' Nervine by its soothing and quieting influence and by strengthening and replenishing the exhausted nerve force brings profound and restful sleep. The first bottle will benefit; if not, the druggist will return your money.

FOUR WEDDINGS IN TWENTY-FOUR HOURS

Three Were Held at St. Mary's Church, Two This Morning—One Couple Married Last Evening.

Within the past twenty-four hours Janesville has had four weddings. This morning at 8:30 Reverend W. A. Goebel united in marriage at the St. Mary's parsonage William Koehler and Violet Fitzgerald. Joseph Koehler acted as best man and Miss Elizabeth Maryatt as maid of honor. At nine a second wedding was performed by the same priest, Oscar Van Gelder being united in marriage to Florence M. La Chance. William Deane acted as best man at this ceremony, while the bride was attended by Miss Edna Brundage. Both these couples were from Janesville. Last evening at 5 o'clock George L. Sherridan was married by Judge C. L. Lange to Miss Myrtle Wales. The fourth wedding occurred yesterday morning at St. Mary's church, when Herbert Pringle of Beloit married Miss Mary Tucker of this city, William Forester of Beloit and Miss Mary Bier being the witnesses.

A Group of New Furs.

Fortunate indeed is the woman who is the possessor of one of these fur sets, consisting of hat, muff and stole to match. The one above is a particularly handsome one of sable. The mitty little toque is of shirred velvet and fur bands, decorated by a stiff white algortie held by a novelty ornament. With this set is carried the muff at the lower right. This muff, by the way, shows the return to the old round shape of several years ago. Many of the rug muffs are still seen, however, as witness the beautiful one of ermine just above.

Author Declines War.

Maurice Hewitt, the English author, is a warm advocate of peace. He set forth his views in a letter read at the annual meeting of the International Arbitration Peace association not long ago. "I am, as you suppose, a peace at any price man," he wrote. "The use of murder and homicide as a means of deciding international difficulties seems to me inconceivable. I do not, however, believe that we shall make any real advance until war is commonly spoken of in the terms we now apply to drunkenness or gluttony as degrading and disgusting."

PERSONAL MENTION.

Miss Agnes Miller of Beloit is in the city for a few days' visit with friends.

Mrs. Dave Brown of Koshkonong was in the city yesterday.

STEAMER PURITAN IS IN PORT.

Battles with Storm—Twenty-Four Hours Out Reaches Chicago Safely.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—After a 24-hour struggle in the storm the disabled Puritan of the Graham & Morton line was towed into the South Chicago harbor. On board were 40 passengers and members of the crew, and all were exhausted by the strain of the many hours during which the boat drifted in the trough of the sea. All night with anchors dragging through the sand the boat seemed about to be swept ashore, and not a man but was glad when tugs from Chicago dragged the Puritan to safety.

A shift of wind and wireless telegraphy saved the Puritan.

SEA CAPTAIN SAYS THE ASTOR YACHT IS SAFE

Nourmahal Was in San Juan Harbor on Evening of November 17.

New York, Nov. 24.—The yacht Nourmahal with John Jacob Astor, his son, guests and crew are safe and are somewhere in West Indian waters.

When the Insular line steamship Harry Luckenbach reached New York from San Juan, P. R., she was met at quarantine by a swarm of reporters, who assailed Capt. Dalton with inquiries about the Nourmahal.

"Have you seen the Nourmahal?" "I saw her last Wednesday evening in the harbor at San Juan," replied the captain, "safe and sound and tight as a drum. What's the matter?"

He was surprised to find that Nourmahal was supposed to have been lost in the great hurricane. It appears that the yacht, although she sailed out of San Domingo harbor on November 12 into the teeth of a gale, was never in any danger. She entered the harbor of San Juan on Sunday, November 14, after calling at Mayaguez, and dropped anchor. Capt. Dalton said:

"I don't know where the Nourmahal is now. She may still be at San Juan, but that is hardly likely."

Col. Astor and his son, Vincent, were aboard when we left San Juan Wednesday afternoon.

"According to the sailing master Astor had planned to sail from San Juan to Ponce and from Ponce to some port on the south of Cuba. From Cuba, I understood, the yacht would head north."

Capt. Dalton said that the hurricane wrought great damage to Porto Rico. Passengers on the Harry Luckenbach said that Col. Astor and members of his party were automobiling in Porto Rico last Tuesday and Wednesday.

HOTEL FIRE MENACES THEATER.

Panic Is Averted by Coolness of Manager Bradford.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—Six hundred persons, most of them clad in evening dress, were driven from the Grand opera house shortly after the curtain rose on "The Dawn of Tomorrow" last night, when a fire, believed to be of incendiary origin, broke out next door in the Lucky hotel at 85 Clark street.

The auditorium was filled with smoke which poured through the stage wings, and the gongs of arriving fire apparatus changing in the street outside filled the audience with terror.

Visions of the horrors of the Iroquois fire filled every mind and men and women sprang from their seats precipitately. They were restrained from a headlong rush by Walter Bradford, acting manager of the company, who appeared on the stage and declared there was no immediate danger. He asked the audience to leave quietly.

His manner averted a panic, but the audience left the auditorium as rapidly as possible.

The performance was stopped until firemen had the blaze under control, then the audience returned to its seats.

GOV. HADLEY INJURES HAND.

Robbers Kill Saloonkeeper.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 24.—Two unidentified robbers shot and killed M. A. Spangler, a saloonkeeper, and seriously wounded Spangler's son, Samuel, during a hold-up in a saloon here.

Vagaries of a Cold.

"You can never be quite sure where a cold is going to hit you. In the fall and winter it may settle in the bowels, producing severe pain. Do not be alarmed nor torment yourself with fears of appendicitis. At the first sign of a cramp take Perry Davis' Painkiller in warm, sweetened water and relief comes at once. There is but one Painkiller—Perry Davis'."

AMONG THE CLOUDS.

because in the treatment of kidney or Bright's disease (which is the same thing) sanitarium methods offer the best hope of quickest results and permanent cure. If you come to us early, after the kidneys are destroyed the very best treatment will only give relief. Two very important ideas in the treatment are assisting the system to throw off the accumulated poison and placing you on a form of food which while giving you a sufficient amount of nourishment will throw the least work on the kidneys because you know that a large percentage of the food you eat after its nourishment has been extracted by the system, is thrown off as poison, in the form of urine. In the sanitarium a skilled physician has you under constant observation to see that these ideas are carried out to their full extent. Another important point is that the skin should be kept in the best possible condition because it must assist the kidneys in throwing off poison, which it does by means of the perspiration. In order to assist the skin in its work the various forms of medicated baths are given, also Turkish baths. Beloit Riverview Sanitarium also makes a specialty of diseases of the Stomach, Bowels, Liver, Heart and Nervous System. Fill out the coupon and mail it to us today or call and see us. An examination and advice is all that you may need at the present time. We have some valuable information for you. Take the Interurban car and get off at Middle St. in Beloit.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, November 21, 1869.—Hoot Lotting.—A couple of "men and brothers" got into a house last night near the Jordan house, which resulted in a little unseemly bloodletting. It was all about a woman. As near as we can make out one of them was engaged to the daughter of the other's father, and the "other fellow's" girl, and got caught at it. At any rate he was "out in the cold," so to speak, and was a pass at the gallant with a jack-knife. Not to be outdone he drew his oyster knife, whereupon there was a lively passage of arms, until the assaulting party received a very severe gash several inches in length on one of his hands, none separating the first and second fingers. The war ended immediately thereafter and the wounded man withdrew into a lumber yard near at hand. No arrests have yet been made.

Runaways.—The double team of Mr. E. S. Harrison, while drawing corn from the depot this forenoon became frightened by the breaking of the sleigh, a runner of which caught in the track. The driver, John Keoley, was thrown from the seat and the reins were wrenched from his hands, after which the horses took a brisk run, turning onto West Milwaukee street. Before proceeding far out to the thoroughfare they brought up against one of the posts sustaining a wooden awning. We are sorry to say the awning was not demolished, Keoley sustained some severe injuries about the face, but his injuries are not serious.

Culprit in Luck.

Steady Baker was at one time may- or of Folkestone, England. Once a boy was brought before him for stealing gooseberries and Steady, aware of the importance of the case, turned over the pages of the alphabetically arranged "Barn's Justice" for a precedent. Falling to find one, he turned to the culprit. "My lad," said he, "it's lucky for you that you were not brought here for stealing a goose; there is a statute against stealing geese, but I can't find anything about gooseberries in all 'Barn's,' so let the prisoner be discharged, for I suppose it is no offense."

One of the most encouraging signs of the times is to be found in the fact that a man may be defeated in a political campaign without being reported to have taken a trip up Salt river.

Talks on Snake Culture

No. 46—The Heart Ache

In a town you have heard of there is a venerable man who tinkers around at anything he can get to do. Sometimes you see him toiling with a shovel, and you can hear his old bones creak; he does some gardening, he mixes mortar, he sweats around at anything that will bring him the price of a meal. He takes off his hat now and then, to let the flies escape, and then the Innocent Bystander notices that he has a remarkably fine head. It is as large as an ordinary waste basket and its conformation indicates that a good deal of care was taken with it in the first place. About thirty years ago that old man was the editor of a rather important newspaper. He was such an able writer that he had admirers throughout a wide territory, and was fast building up a national reputa- tion. It was freely predicted that he would eventually take his place among the giants. As a matter of fact he has taken his place among the shovel push- ers, and is mighty glad when he earns thirty cents in a day. He was what they used to call a good mixer. A good mixer was a man who could circulate around among the b'hoys, and keep his end in any boozefest. He mixed so much and with such enthusiasm that he lost his grip entirely, and now, in his old age, his brain doesn't comply with the pure food laws, and he hasn't inter- lect enough left to do anything more difficult than currying a horse. You can find plenty of shining examples of the kind, if you look around you.
